I _____ release Christopher Braddy/Jewel Windows Inc of liability caused to the windows in the cleaning process or of any damages already present to the storm windows.

If in the process of disassembling, cleaning or reinstalling storm windows, a breakage occurs as a result of their being worn, aged joints, tight fitting assembly or some other logistical issues pertaining to the overall age or maintenance of the storm window unit, Jewel Windows Inc would not be liable for the damages or costs to repair. Of course, if any breakage is due to our mishandling or an accident on our part, Jewel Windows Inc will assume full responsibility and will promptly take care of the issue. However, if in the process of normal handling, a storm window falls apart, warps, bends or glass breaks, we do not assume liability.

Furthermore, it is accepted, that to properly clean storm windows, we will need to remove the storm windows from their tracks and reinstall. The customer understands the risks involved in doing this.
